

Project Status report

Name: Mikayla Peterson

Community (UN SD goal): SDG 1 and 12

MVP # 1

Sprint cycle dates: Nov 17 – Dec 8

Project Name Fairtrade Certification Management System

Blurb I'm making an application to allow Small Scale Producers to help keep track of the documents they need for Fairtrade Certification. My SDGs are 1 and 12. Since it is critical to keep track of these documents and it can be difficult to navigate the standards document, there is an opportunity to make an application that helps the producers keep create and keep track of these documents as well as specific dates related to the certification process.

For Week Ending December 8, 2023

Project Status Red

Status Description To put it plainly, I finally ended up switching away from .NET MAUI due to the sheer number of issues I was having. I should've switched earlier, but didn't and that is why my project is the way it is.

Activities—During the past sprint cycle

- Spent a long time (arguably too much time) trying to fix the databinding error I was having with SQLite. Turns out this has been an open issue with MAUI and macOS/iOS development since 2022.
- Gave up on MAUI and started shifting over to Flutter

Project Issues

The biggest issue is that it's no longer possible for me to finish this project due to changing the language so late.

Project Changes

Switched to Flutter

Activities—Planned for Next Week

Try to get as much done as possible for Friday
Need to finish all the closing documents

Reflection

I'm not on track.

Like I said during my final presentation, I'm not proud of/don't feel good about my project. To be blunt I am beyond disappointed in myself and my project. I'm frustrated with myself because I know deep down that I can do better, and I should've done better. I know I'm not mentally or physically doing my best this semester (I ended up testing positive for COVID-19 on Wednesday and haven't been getting any better, so I've been struggling with that while trying to wrap up this project too), so maybe this is the best that I can do right now, but I'm still frustrated with myself. Maybe my best is no longer good enough, and I should reconsider what I'm doing in life. I feel like I tried so hard to get this project to work, and what I ended up with doesn't reflect that at all. I'm also beyond embarrassed that I cried during the final presentation; I feel like that was so unprofessional of me to do. I fell off track and was unable to get myself back on track.

The biggest barrier right now is time and trying to learn more stuff with Flutter so I at least have something. I'm also becoming more concerned about my mental health, because I haven't gotten any better; I've arguably gotten worse. I feel like I'm using a teaspoon to prevent the Titanic from sinking.

I'm genuinely concerned about failing this class. I tried, but I extremely underperformed.
